Top Houses Use Exclusive Fabrics To Fight Boutiques

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PARIS—(NEA)—Prices, not hemlines, will be higher when the Paris spring collections open on Jan. 24. The couture houses have upped the price tags on their wares, some as much as $200 over last January's figures.

No revolutionary fashion changes are expected when the curtain goes up this time on what has been called the greatest fashion show on earth.

No shockers such as necklines slit to the navel are anticipated. But there is a growing feeling among Paris fashion professionals that has shocked the designers themselves. This is the belief that boutique and ready-to-wear designs may be tolling the bell for the passing of haute couture. These new fashions are young, handsome and much less expensive.

The couturiers are now fighting back with a weapon they haven't used before—exclusive fabrics. St. Laurent, Cardin, Dior, Lanvin, Ricci, Heim and Venet have designed both the patterns and weights of their wools and the color schemes and designs on their silks.

In the collections for spring '66 you will see the triumph of the ingenue—the little girl look emphasized by low-heeled, one-strap baby shoes. Everything will be done with a soft approach but this by no means implies a floppy, droopy look.

Skirts will continue to be brief but no briefer than they are now, allowing a glimpse of the knee for those who like it that way. And they will be wider, gored and pleated.

The sleeveless shift is expected to bow out to more feminine dresses with sleeves and waists that hover either above or below the natural anchorage.

Turtleneck necks are out. New is the guillotine neckline (rounded and well away from the neck) and the return of the lily Peter Pan collar.

Over at Dior, Marc Bohan explains his new line by saying that both the bosom and waist will be "rubbed out." His lines will be straight, but soft and fluid because of the new sheer lightweight fabrics.

Bohan has backed the ensemble theme against the suit and also will feature the sleeved coat dress for street wear.

There will be a return to what were once known as spectator sports clothes for day and ultrasophisticated dresses for evening—minus the wasp waist, tight skirt and aggressive bosom that were considered sexy fashion tricks in decades past.

Summer cocktail dresses in filmy fabrics will have short,

Competing with the elegant Paris couture collections for spring 1966 are handsome fashions from the ready-to-wear houses such as this trim coat in sulphur and white reversible gabardine from the house of Bastia.

The Paris ready-to-wear house of Bastia offers this youthful coat done in the Courreges manner. It features crowsfoot tweed fabric in a striking color combination of oyster green and white.

Reputations Rub Off, So Shove Off!
Dear Helen: My girl friend just revealed to me how unstable her personality is. She steals from stores and says it's an urge she can't help. She doesn't feel very guilty about it because she says other kids do it too.

She also lets this morose boy get away with a lot of advances. She won't tell her parents any of this because she seems to think everything is Okay.

I don't want to ruin my reputation from being around her, but I'd like to help her from making a horrible mistake. She is essentially a bright and nice girl, and I think she does these things to get attention. What should I do? — Worrywart Girl Friend.

Dear WWGF: If a girl steals and is too free and easy with boys because "others do," then she's neighborly, not nice, and she needs more help than you can give her.

Discuss this with your mother who can arrange for that help. Then, unless she shapes up, shove off.

It's been said the company you choose reflects your opinion of yourself. This isn't always true, but it certainly shapes others' opinion of YOU. —H.

Dear Helen: What do you think of a girl who spent $150.00 for a jeweled collar for her dog for Christmas? — Poverty War-T.

Dear P.W.: I'd say her parents have more coins than brains. —H.

Can't Say It
Dear Helen: I have been going with this certain boy for seven months. He has told me over and over again that he loves me, but I can't bring myself to say those three words, "I love you," even though I'm sure I do. One day over the phone he told me he loved me and you know what, I go as far

At 40, Marceau Can Act Any Age

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — La vie does indeed begin at 40. Marcel Marceau, the French mime who is such a great practitioner of his art that he can fill an empty stage with a horde of personalities he creates by gestures, is over 40 and feeling "much better than I did 10 years ago. Maybe I am not as good in speed, but I am better psychologically. At 40, one becomes keen and aware of the possibilities for his art. I think I will be 40 for long, long years," he added with a smile.

Marcel Marceau

He made one of his rare television appearances on Jan. 18 on CBS-TV with Red Skelton. This was Marceau's third appearance on Skelton's show. He will also be seen on Hollywood Palace in February. But he picks his television spots carefully.

"If I appear on a show where I am thrown in for six minutes, those who have not seen me perform in the theater think this is my whole act. If an actor appears for six minutes, people know he is only doing a six-minute act, and not his whole repertoire. But Skelton gives me 20 minutes to do some of my mime."

Marceau, who first came to America 10 years ago, and started audiences with his consummate artistry, is credited with a revival in France of the classic art of pantomime. His present tour of the U.S., his fifth visit to this country, has encompassed 35 cities (on some tours he has played as many as 75), with Marceau saying audiences at university concerts are particularly "marvelous."

"I am more known by the public outside of New York, than I am there. In New York I am known by the theater-going public, but outside of there, the people know me."

clip in a suburban railroad station, what would you do? You can find out what countless Americans in eight major cities (Seattle, Boston, Atlanta, Denver, Houston, Los Angeles, Oklahoma City and New York) did when they found such a clip on "Testing: Is Anybody Honest?", the first of four NBC-TV testing specials. It will be on Sunday, Jan. 23, preempting The Wackiest Ship in the Army.

Will Avoid Calling Up the Guard

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's blueprint for strengthening the armed forces contains two strong indications that it intends to avoid calling Reservists or National Guardsmen to active duty.

One is Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's statement to Congress that more support-type units must be provided for the regular Army, "inasmuch as it appears desirable to be in a position to deploy additional forces without calling up Reservists."

The other indication lies in the decision to create a new 18,000-man division for the regular Marine Corps.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Glenn Yarbrough is working his way through college — not to get a lot of knowledge, but to retire a rich man.

That time may come soon. Unlike most performers who believe the show must go on and on, Yarbrough is willing to quit when he gets ahead. He did it once before.

He is a moon-faced man of 35, more reminiscent in his hornrimmed glasses of a bookkeeper than a folk singer. But sing he does, in a manner that has captured a large segment of the young population. He sings not of protest, but of the joys and sorrows of the wanderer's life.

"Time to Move On" was his first album, and the title is apt. Come February and Yarbrough will be moving on to colleges all over the nation, singing as many as eight concerts a week. He'll be on the road until July.

"That will be my last long tour," said the folk singer. "I'm tired of just singing. I want to start acting, and I'm doing a 'Branded' soon. Can I act? I think anybody can do it. I've never had any acting lessons, but then, nobody taught me to sing, either."

Things seem to come naturally to Yarbrough. He folk-sang his way across the country in his '20s. A husband and father, he sought a more stable life by buying the Lighthouse Club in Aspen, Colo. Then he and two other singers formed the Lighthouse, and the success of the team put him on the move again. It also helped end his marriage.

"When something starts to level off, I like to leave it," he said. "Otherwise it becomes a meaningless repetition."

So Yarbrough cut out from the Lighthouse, even though the team was grossing over a half-million dollars annually. The sea was luring him, and he bought a boat to sail the South Pacific. He did sail as far as Hawaii. Meanwhile he had made a single album for RCA Victor. It sold 30,000 copies in the San Francisco area alone, so Yarbrough decided to try his luck nationally.

The luck was good, especially with the college crowd. Yarbrough is aiming at an early retirement, with earnings of $300,000 a year and upward. It's entirely possible. Yarbrough's present goal is a school for gifted orphans which he would like to establish on a plantation he recently bought in Jamaica.

Rids Taken on River Work

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — The Dravo Corp. of Pittsburgh, Pa., submitted an apparent low bid of $13,187,829 Thursday on a contract for construction of Lock and Dam No. 13 in the Arkansas River Navigation Project.

Lock and Dam 13 will be the last major structure in the Arkansas phase of the $1.3-billion project to be put under contract.

The dam will be about one mile downstream from Fort Smith. Completion is scheduled about 3 1/2 years and the Arkansas River will then be navigable from its mouth to Fort Smith.

More for Missions

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (AP) — Methodists gave more for missions in fiscal 1965 than ever before, a report says, but individually they contributed $3.56 a year or about seven cents a week.

Dr. I. Conwell Snook of New York, chief financial officer of the Methodist Board of Missions, said the board had for the fiscal year a total of $36,732,064, an increase of $622,711 over fiscal 1964, the previous record year.

Michael Caine and Sue Lloyd, both British spies, fear they've been trapped by enemy agents, in this exciting scene from Harry Saltzman's production of Len Deighton's "The Ipcress File," a suspense drama of international espionage based on Deighton's best-selling novel. Photographed in Technicolor and Techniscope, the film is a Universal release.

Tues. - Wed. - Thurs.

Peter Sellers as a kooky psychiatrist and Capucine as one of his patients or victims, in Charles K. Feldman's hilarious "WHAT'S NEW PUSSYCAT?" Technicolor. Peter O'Toole, Romy Schneider, Paula Prentiss, Woody Allen and Ursula Andress are also in the cast.

Edible
The wild cattail is an edible plant. The rootstock can be used as a salad or cooked vegetable; the young flower head can be used in soup, while the yellow pollen of the older flower head can be made into flour.

Big Business
Boating enthusiasts spent an estimated $2,683,000,000 at retail during 1965 for new and used boats, motors, accessories, safety equipment, insurance, docking, maintenance, launching, storage, repairs and club memberships.

CAST BREAD

"He shall be blessed that giveth his bread to the poor," Prov. 22:9. Have you ever tried this formula? It works! Compassion of American service men for little war orphans is bread that will come back to America some day. A mischievous college boy was given another chance. Years later, the wealthiest man in his state, he paid off his Alma Mater debt. Giving is not losing. To give is to gain. Generosity expands the soul, gives one more capacity to receive. Jesus said, "Give and it shall be given to you; good measure, pressed down and running over." Every moment is the right time to cast on the waters the needed piece of bread. Why not cast yours this very day.

New Decision of Court to Be Discussed

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) - Like a frog in a high school biology lab, a decision announced Wednesday by the Supreme Court will be thoroughly dissected.

The ruling will be done by judges, law officers and thousands of men behind bars yearning for freedom. What they will be searching for is a clue - a clue to how the court eventually will spell out its 1964 Escobedo ruling.

Those who would not have that momentous decision declared retroactive will find signs pointing their way. But so, too, could those who would have the high court make the ruling apply to convictions obtained before 1964.

All will find in Justice Potter Stewart's opinion further evidence that the court is faced with a difficult problem.

Crystal clear is this: An historic verdict handed down by the court last April cannot be used to open jail doors for thousands convicted earlier.

What the court did Wednesday - over the objection of Justices Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas - was to bar retroactive application of last April's decision prohibiting state courts from allowing the judge or prosecutor to remind the jury that the defendant did not take the stand.

What the court will do about the possible retroactive application of the Escobedo ruling will remain a question until the justices rule on several cases that touch on this point later this term.

The Escobedo decision, issued in 1964, for the first time extended the right to counsel to suspects in a police station. Danny Escobedo's conviction in Illinois of murdering his brother-in-law was thrown out because police did not let him see his lawyer before confessing.

If the ruling is made retroactive, Chief Justice Joseph Weintraub of the New Jersey Supreme Court has warned, it could "open the gates of prisons to thousands of convicts."

"We can't even try today's criminals, we're so busy trying old ones," Weintraub has complained.

California sounded a similar theme in the case of Cincinnati lawyer Edgar I. Shott Jr., decided Wednesday.

If Shott's conviction in Ohio in 1961 on charges of selling a security without a license and of selling an unregistered security is upset by retroactive application of last April's ruling, California said, "hardened and dangerous criminals under long-term sentences" could win new trials.

In explaining why the court decided against retroactivity Stewart dwelled on the court's concern with the administration of justice.

Anyhow, Losing Play Was Better

By JACOBY & SON

Deal three of round eight of the trials proved a trap for several South players when they reached six hearts on bidding similar to that in the box.

At those tables where West opened a club the slam always made. South would take his ace of clubs, ruff a club, return to his hand with the 10 of spades and try to ruff another club. East would over-ruff dummy's jack of trumps with the queen and lead a second spade, whereupon South would discard one diamond on the third spade and then play ace and another diamond.

South would be careful to ruff this with the nine of trumps and West would not be able to overruff.

When West opened his sin-

THE BORN LOSER

By ART SANSOM

Luigi Galvani, from whom we get the term galvanize, was an Italian physiologist who lived in the 18th century. As a lecturer in anatomy he conducted experiments on frogs. His theory of animal electricity resulted from his observation that there was a connection between muscle twitching and simultaneous contact with copper and iron. This was the first time an electric current was produced.

QUARTER HORSE RACING

'Easy Rein and Hair Trigger'

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Ask Texan Rex Cauble about quarter horses and the answer he draws is close to poetry.

"A quarter horse is half a ton of poised and controlled energy, held on an easy rein and a hair trigger," he said.

"He's proud when he stands; looks lazy when he walks. But when he runs he can whip tears from the corners of your eyes and plaster your hat brim against the crown."

Ask jockey Don Pierce about riding quarter horses and he winces.

Burgin

"I rode one in a race as an apprentice jockey 11 years ago," Pierce said. "He got going so fast he couldn't keep his legs under him. We fell and I was laid up eight months with a broken back."

It was then that Pierce turned to the safety of thoroughbred racing, limiting his love of quarter horses to raising them on his ranch near Phoenix.

Too big to be a jockey, Cauble runs a quarter horse breeding ranch at Crockett, Tex.

And for both men, quarter horse racing is becoming big business in what is probably the fastest growing sport in the United States.

It is already a multimillion dollar industry, carrying with it the intrigue of legislative battles in state houses and a tradition dating back to colonial days.

The quarter horse got its name in the 1600s when it was the pride of the Virginia and Carolina colonies. Races of a quarter mile were held in village streets.

In the westward movement, these horses easily adapted to cattle ranching. Today, quarter horses and quarter racing are most abundant in the Southwest.

Only 11 states now conduct pari-mutuel racing. "But," Pierce said, "several other states probably will join the fold in the next couple of years."

Last year one newcomer to quarter horse racing, California, had a collective handle of more than $30 million.

In horse-race-happy New York last year a pari-mutuel quarter horse racing bill was put before the legislature. It passed the Senate but lost by two votes in the Assembly. The bill will be on the state docket again in 1966.

"If quarter horses get to New York," Pierce said, "I think they'll catch on better than they did in California."

"They are extremely quick and the competition is always close. Six of every 10 races are photo finishes."

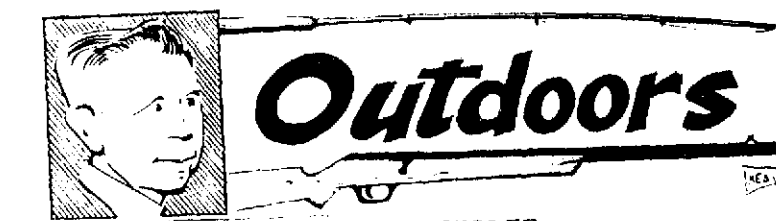

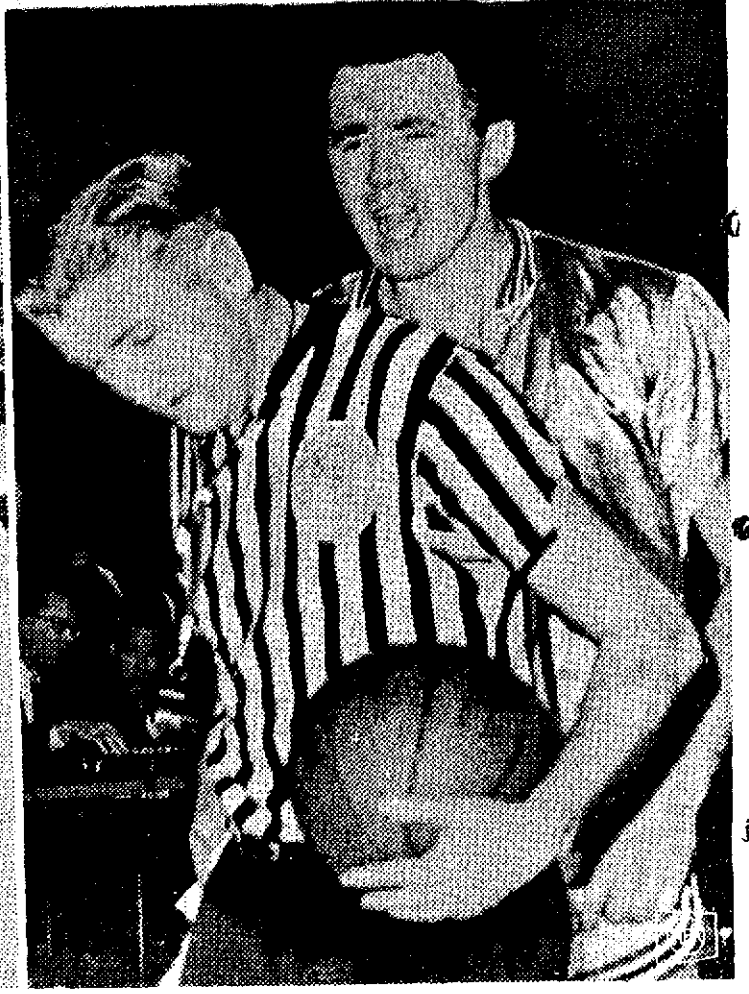

The richest race in the world is, in fact, a quarter horse race. It is the $400,000-plus All-American Futurity held every Labor Day at Ruidoso Downs in the Sierra Blanca mountains of New Mexico.

The 1965 Futurity winner, Savannah Jr., took home a $192,720 pay-off for just 20.3 seconds and 400 yards of work.

That's nearly $10,000 a second.

TROUBLED TIMES—Wilt Chamberlain (left) and an enraged Richie Guerin are pictures of troubled moments in the National Basketball Association. For the high-salaried Chamberlain, maybe income tax time has him down. St. Louis player-coach Guerin clearly didn't like the call and tells referee Joe Gushue so.

As every angler knows, there is not a great deal of similarity between casting for bass from a boat and dunking for pike through a hole in the ice.

The former is an active, mobile sport, while the latter is largely a matter of sitting and waiting. But for the tourist, or anyone fishing strange waters, they have one thing in common: The successful angler is one who talks.

The purpose of the talk should be to find out what bait or lures are currently effective and how they should be used (deep, shallow, fast, etc.). Where to fish is also important, but many consider this classified information.

Favorite spots are rarely revealed to summer anglers but, since they can cover a great deal of water, it is not essential to their success. Location, however, is vital to the ice fisherman. Fortunately, there is usually visual evidence that indicates where others have fished. This is not always reliable—there is a chance the original hole driller knew less than you do—but it is better than nothing.

Live bait, such as minnows, is best for ice fishing. If it is not available, then artificial lures can be employed. To be effective, they must be worked, and one can use a small jigging rod for this. There are special ice lures, but any fine spinning lure, such as an ABU-Reflex, can be used to good advantage.

Depth of water and depth at which to fish lures are key factors, in winter as well as summer. A general rule for ice fishermen is that as the season progresses, fish are forced deeper in quest of oxygen. Local conditions may alter this, and this brings us back to the original point—talk to those who should know, tackle store proprietors, boat landing operators, other anglers. Find out what's biting what and where. If it's fish you're after, it will be worth your while.

BERT BELL AWARD—Murray Olderman, left, sports editor of Newspaper Enterprise Assn., presents NEA's annual Bert Bell Award to Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears. The award goes to the National Football League's rookie of the year.

ROUGHING IT—They drive a hard bargain in Scotland. An easy golf hole is as rare as a spendthrift. "You work for everything you get on Scotland's courses," says Dave Marr. Here, Marr slugs his way out of deep rough—typical of all courses in Scotland—at Turnberry Golf Course near Ayrshire, Scotland. Wind and undulating terrain are other trademarks of Scottish courses. The wind at Turnberry is exceptionally hazardous because the two courses there are near the sea. Says Marr, "Changes in wind direction and velocity make golf a new experience on every hole."

Out of the Shadow into the Spotlight

DAVIDSON, N.C. — (NEA) — Dick Snyder is in the unfortunate position of having to follow Fred Hetzel at Davidson College.

A year ago, Davidson was one of the nation's top teams with a 23-game winning streak, and Hetzel was a unanimous All-American selection who averaged 26.5 points per game.

Almost unnoticed on the same team was Dick Snyder, a 6-5 forward who averaged 20.2 points per game.

This year, it has taken half a season, but people are beginning to notice Dick Snyder.

He is among the 10 leading scorers in the country (29.2) and is one of the leaders in field goal percentage with a .614 average.

It's not just his scoring, however, that has attracted the professional scouts.

"I like Snyder on defense," says Donnie Butcher of the Detroit Pistons. "He plays his man tight, but he helps out in the middle, too."

"Look at the records if you want proof of his greatness," says Davidson coach Lefty Driesell.

"He averaged 20 points per game last year and his defense was so good I don't think he let his man get within 10 points of his usual scoring average all season."

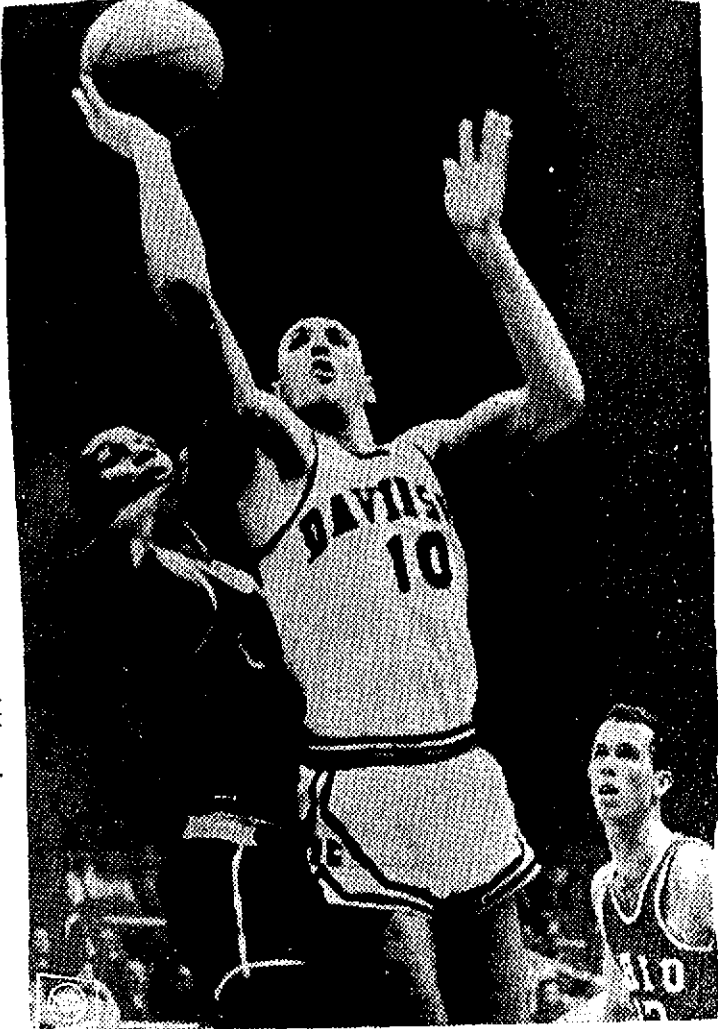

"That's giving a 30-point-per-game performance any way you look at it."

"He's also very strong on the boards and offensively is the explosive type player who can break a game open in a few minutes."

As Davidson continues to win this season, the experts will start asking why.

Last year the main reason was Fred Hetzel and Dick Snyder.

This year, it's Dick Snyder.

A Vote for Youth

By SANDY PADWE
NEW YORK—(NEA)—Dan Tehan is the sheriff of Cincinnati, which explains his candidness.

He also spent 35 years officiating National Football League games and has a refreshing answer to an old question: the merits of the old-time professionals vs. the modern day players.

"The old-timers hate to admit it," says Tehan, "but today's players have passed them by. . . . The modern players are just as tough. . . . they're bigger. . . . they're smarter. . . . and they're in better shape."

"What makes the game better today is that you have offensive and defensive specialists. . . . in the old days those guys had trouble getting through 60 minutes and if the game was a rout, the guys on the losing team usually had trouble getting through the last quarter."

Retirement hasn't slowed Hot Rod Hundley, the basketball madcap from West Virginia University and the Los Angeles Lakers.

Now a salesman for the Converse Rubber Co. in West Virginia, Hundley and North Carolina, Hot Rod has some advice for Walter Kennedy, president of the National Basketball Association.

"If the NBA really wants to improve its television production, the league should hire me to do the color," Hot Rod says. "I'd do for basketball what Joe Garagiola did for baseball."

He probably would, too. His stories, after six years in the league, are endless. But the NBA is trying to build an image, not ruin it. . . .

"I've always admired the way Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio retired," says Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns. "And I plan to go out the same way. . . . at the top of my game. . . . That's why I'm certain I'll retire at the end of next season."

Throughout the week-long National Football League Players Association meeting and golf tournament at the Hollywood (Fla.) Beach Hotel, the most popular figure was Tom Matte, the Baltimore Colts' halfback who wound up at quarterback in the two most crucial games of the year.

"There's been a lot written about me since those games," Matte said, "but the tributes I'll remember most came from the guys around the league who took the time to shake my hand and tell me they thought I did a good job. When your opponents tell you that, it makes you feel pretty good."

Matte begins a tour, shortly, of service installations in Europe where he will show film highlights of the Baltimore Green Bay play-off game for the Western Division title.

Between you'n'me, the Ivy League surpassed all its past records for pompousness with its latest outburst against the National Collegiate Athletic Association. In the past the Ivies always have had a solid basis for their grievances. But to make an issue over a grade average that wouldn't qualify an athlete for Ivy League admission is just a petty attempt to embarrass Walter Byers and the NCAA. . . .

R. I. High on Johnson Arch

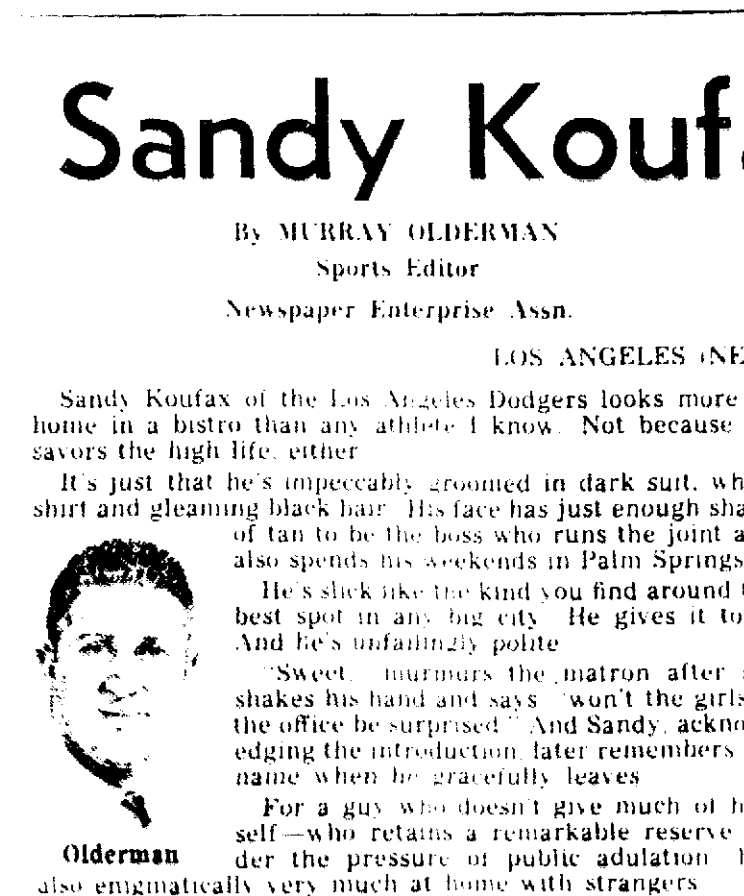

KINGSTON, R.I.—(NEA)—Larry Johnson makes Rhode Island University basketball fans turn blue—blue from holding their breath when he takes a jump shot.

Johnson, a "little man" at 5-11, has developed a gimmick in a game where height usually means might. His compensating weapon is a shot that arches as much as 25 feet above the rim.

The ball seems to hang forever in its ceiling-scraping trajectory, and Rhode Island spectators follow it down with a "whoooooooooop." Defensive rebounders, their timing thrown off, often are caught jumping before the ball is halfway there.

Johnson developed the shot playing the schoolyards of Newark, N.J., where the basket rims were set at 12 feet rather than the regulation 10 feet.

Only a sophomore, Johnson is still growing. If he can grow an inch or two, he is thinking of paring a couple of feet off the arch in his "long bombs."

Sandy Koufax--A Smooth Stan Musial

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

LOS ANGELES (NEA)

Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers looks more at home in a bistro than any athlete I know. Not because he savors the high life, either.

It's just that he's impeccably groomed in dark suit, white shirt and gleaming black hair. His face has just enough shade of tan to be the boss who runs the joint and also spends his weekends in Palm Springs.

He's slick like the kind you find around the best spot in any big city. He gives it tone. And he's unfailingly polite.

"Sweet," murmurs the matron after she shakes his hand and says, "won't the girls in the office be surprised?" And Sandy, acknowledging the introduction, later remembers her name when he gracefully leaves.

For a guy who doesn't give much of himself—who retains a remarkable reserve under the pressure of public adulation—he is also enigmatically very much at home with strangers.

between you'n'me

Sandy has started to say the right thing. He's a smooth Stan Musial.

He smiles, he patters, he shakes hands. And sometimes you get the feeling he almost likes it.

This is a million dollar property which isn't trying very hard to make the million.

He does what he has to. A banquet here, a luncheon there, a dinner elsewhere. Though he'd much rather be off by himself in the rooming house existence he manages to maintain in this sprawling megalopolis.

Because he has to be so dominant a figure in baseball last season capped by his superb World Series performance, the demands of such a time are inexorable. The merry-go-round of appearances has already started and will keep him on the go for a long time. A year ago he even came under the wing of Los Angeles Business Management, a Los Angeles agency, to get him away from the diamond activities.

For his pitching, Sandy will sign, when the time comes, for something around $100,000. And if Walter O'Malley can let his sense of the dramatic overcome his basic penuriousness, he'd give Sandy even more and let him become the highest paid player in history—a rare tribute for a pitcher who contributes only once every four days.

Any figure around 100 Gs would still leave Koufax some $600,000 shy of the $700,000 Walter Winchell racked up as his prospective income for 1966.

"I'll take the difference," Sandy smiles ruefully, "between the $700,000 and what I'll actually make. Where do they get those figures?"

Then he pondered seriously. "It had to be a typographical mistake, don't you think?"

Sandy is now 30 years old, still a bachelor and not worried over his material future. Even his physical condition causes no anxiety after he proved it's possible to win 26 games, plus two in a World Series, with an arthritic elbow.

Of much more concern is his golf swing. He hits 'em left-handed, putts right-handed and confesses that it really doesn't matter—it's terrible from either side.

Besides which all that travel—New York, Boston, Houston, Chicago and points in between—interferes with his tee time. He's a member in good standing of the 100,000-mile club. Of course, every mile means a buck.

Some guys would settle for that instead of golf.

GREEK CLASSIC—Zorba the Greek had his dance. So does Lema the American. Tony's jig came after a perfect 30-foot putt which delighted the Greek gallery at Glyfada Golf Club outside Athens. Lema called the course "one of the most exciting I've ever played because of the magnificent scenery." Only four years old, Glyfada is the first and only 18-hole course in Greece. It is situated at the edge of the Hymettus Mountains along the Aegean Sea. High points also offer views of historic Athens. The course plays tough, according to Gene Sarazen, because of trees. "The Greeks," Sarazen said, "don't like to cut down trees and you find them standing right in the middle of the fairway."

Politics and Businessmen

Rep. Edwin Edwards had some cold, hard, and distasteful facts for members of the Lake Charles Association of Commerce at a meeting here recently. The meeting was one in a series of "Meet Your Congressman" gatherings sponsored about the state by community chambers of commerce. About 40 members of the 800-member Lake Charles Association showed up. The theme of the meeting was the association's opposition to many of the federal government's programs—the war on poverty, Appalachia, medicare, urban development and public housing.

Rep. Edwards was asked why Congress had become such a "rubber stamp" in passing the Johnson program. Edwards' reply was revealing: "Johnson campaigned on this very program. He made it quite clear that this was what he favored, and this was what he would do if elected. His opponent made it equally clear that he was against everything in the Johnson program. There hasn't been an election in the country's history in which the issues were more clear-cut. Johnson was elected by an unprecedented majority. The people elected more Democrats in Congress than there has been since 1932. What did you expect Congress to do?"

Edwards pointed out that it was high time that businessmen became more involved in politics. "You are wondering," he said, "why your point of view isn't getting across very well with elected officials. Let me ask you a few questions."

"How many of you have worked in elections? How many of you have passed out cards for candidates? How many of your wives have addressed envelopes for political circulars, or answered telephones at campaign headquarters? How many of you went up to a candidate who shared your views, and said, 'I think the way you do, and I think you'll make a good public official. Here's $200 to help in your campaign'?"

"Well, the people who believe just the opposite from you on these social welfare items you are talking about—they have done all of these things. They are successful because they work harder at it. They are better organized. If you want your views to prevail, you can't do it by sitting in a corner and counting your profits. You have to become involved. You have to work. You have to contribute time and money. You have to become a pressure group." — Lake Charles (La.) American Press

Robbing Peter

There's a bumper sticker gaining popularity in Louisville, Ky., which would be funny if the message it carries wasn't so important: "I'm Fighting Poverty, I Work." And when you get right down to it, this nation has had the longest and most successful war on poverty in the history of man because of the millions of Americans who work. Long ago our forefathers decided the government would provide the freedom and the people the elbow grease in a joint effort to combat poverty. The scheme worked because the people worked. They knew they'd starve if they didn't. Now, the trend is to take part of the fruits of the workingman's labors and give it to those who don't work. Under this arrangement those who want to work can, and those who don't want to don't have to. This is progress? — Dallas (Tex.) Morning News

Gambling Pays

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Gov. Grant Sawyer says Nevada's Gaming Commission preliminary reports indicate gross gambling revenue in 1965 went over the $300 million mark for the first time.

He said in a speech that taxes and fees paid to the state rose from $14.9 million to $15.7 million during the same period.

Cong Continues to Violate Lunar Truce

By THOMAS A. REEDY
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A terrorist bomb blasted a U.S. servicemen's billet in Saigon early today and killed an American as the lunar New Year truce passed the half-way mark.

The 25-pound bomb, on a bicycle placed against the billet, ripped a two-foot hole in the wall, killing a U.S. sergeant asleep in a nearby room and fatally wounding a Vietnamese woman who was asleep in a house across a narrow alley.

Two other soldiers and several civilians were injured. It was believed that about 40 men were sleeping in the Signal Corps unit billet a mile from Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport at the time.

U.S. military authorities debated whether the terrorist incident constituted a major truce violation. They said it apparently was the work of the Communist Viet Cong or sympathizers, but it was not as serious as a clear-cut military action during combat.

The terrorist bombing was one of 66 incidents recorded by U.S. military headquarters since midnight Wednesday, an hour before the Viet Cong truce began. The list includes 45 incidents aimed directly at U.S. and allied forces and 21 against South Vietnamese troops.

There was mounting evidence that the Viet Cong had been avoiding contact with South Vietnamese troops during the holiday.

In reports from the field a U.S. spokesman said there were numerous minor incidents late Friday and early today but no major violations. The incidents involved sniper fire or small patrol actions and it was difficult to blame one side or the other, he said.

A Vietnamese military spokesman listed four incidents, however, and said each one was a truce violation by the Communists.

Earlier the U.S. Military Command had accused the Viet Cong of 49 specific violations of the cease-fire.

Three answers have been offered: Throughout the state, in the old 28-county 4th Congressional District or in the new 20-county 4th District, created by a federal court.

Republican Travis N. Beeson of Camden, who lost in the lieutenant governor's race in 1964 and is a candidate for the Arkansas House this year, filed the Chancery Court suit Monday.

His suit also asked for a ruling on whether the Democratic and Republican parties must hold primaries or party conventions for candidates to run with party affiliations.

The vacancy will be created Feb. 2 when Rep. Oren Harris follows through on his announcement to step out of Congress and accept a federal judgeship.

In a related development Monday, Gov. Orval E. Faubus said he plans to have both a Democratic primary and the special general election in the old 28-county district, unless he gets a court order telling him otherwise.

Referring to the U.S. District Court, which realigned the state's four Congressional districts to make them more nearly equal in population, Faubus said:

"Those who get things in a state of confusion have a little responsibility to straighten them out."

Leon Catlett, state chairman of the Democratic Party, agreed with the governor that the special election should be in the old district.

"I think the federal court meant the injunction to apply to future regular primaries and elections," he said. "My thought is that they didn't even consider the possibility of a special election at the time they handed down the decision."

Can't Count on Chinese, Soviet Fuss

By ISAAC M. FLORES

HAVANA (AP) — Observers believe the Soviet-Chinese sparring at the recent Havana conference of revolutionaries from Asia, Africa and Latin America had little immediate effect on the Peking-Moscow struggle for leadership of world communism.

But they feel the Chinese emerged with a slight edge after many of the Chinese delegate's hard-line words found their way into conference resolutions.

Peking representative Wu Hsueh-tien called for more "people's wars against U.S. imperialism and its lackeys" and accused the Soviet Union of taking a less belligerent approach because it fears a nuclear war.

He also charged the Soviets were cooperating with the United States in its "peace talk" intrigues on the Viet Nam question.

Among the Chinese statements that wound up in the conference's pronouncements was Wu's assertion that "U.S. imperialism is beset with tremendous difficulties both at home and abroad and is facing an imminent and deep crisis in all spheres."

Wu and his resolution said the United States "finds itself in an inextricable predicament and is being beaten everywhere, with total defeat awaiting it."

Another of Wu's statements, adopted as a general conference sentiment, was that the U.S. peace offensive for Viet Nam is a smokescreen.

Observers felt that the more than 500 delegates from 82 countries were successful in two things: they created an organization to promote revolution and obtained an enormous amount of propaganda for them.

These experts believe that Cuba was the principal beneficiary in the propaganda field. Throughout the meeting it was referred to as "The scene of the first defeat of American imperialism in Latin America."

A reliable source described Cuba's position during the conference as strongly pro-Soviet but not antagonistically anti-Chinese.

Chief Soviet delegate Shafar Rashdov brought thunderous applause from the delegates when he declared the Soviet Union had long supported people's wars, that it did not want to "enter into polemics" and that the conference should be one of unity and not dissent.

Largely ignoring Wu's remarks, Rashdov hit hard at the United States and outlined Soviet support of North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam. He called for an international aid fund for the Viet Cong, but the conference apparently did not take up his suggestion.

Money on Streets
BERLIN (AP) — Money is lying around on West Berlin streets — and people keep turning it in. That is the report of the police who say their lost and found department has on hand a number of wallets containing between 200 and 300 marks — $50 to $75 — valuable rings and a gold bracelet.

Much of U.S. in Grip of Snow, Sleet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow and sleet whipped across areas in the southern Plains eastward today and severe cold kept an icy hold on broad areas from the Rockies into the nation's midsection.

The arctic air, which has kept temperatures below zero in some northern Midwest cities for several days, covered areas from the Canadian border into the Texas Panhandle. Sub-zero readings were reported in at least 10 states, with the lowest marks — more than 20 below — in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

More than a half foot of snow covered cities in the Texas and Oklahoma panhandle, including 8 inches at Childress, Tex., and 7 inches at Wichita Falls, Tex. Two deaths in traffic accidents were attributed to the stormy weather in Oklahoma.

Snow and sleet mixed with sleet pelted sections of Oklahoma as the storm spread into Arkansas, northern Louisiana, Tennessee and Kentucky. Whizzing driving conditions were reported throughout the storm belt.

Weather

Experiment Station report for 24-hours ending at 7 a.m. Saturday, High 36 Low 24, 1 1/2 inches of snow.

Arkansas — Hazardous driving warning Saturday for most of the state. Cloudy and possible snow Saturday ending in afternoon and turning colder. Cloudy and much colder Saturday night.

things went as four Hope players tallied in double digits. Stan Parris led Hope with 18 points followed by Ronnie Ingram with 17, Ramsey with 16, and Larry May with 12. Bobby McGill had 2 points, the first point of the game. McGill got into foul trouble and was forced to leave the game early in the third quarter.

The game was won under the boards though and the Bobcats mainstays here were Parris, May and Ramsey. Despite Crossett's size advantage, they showed the big boys that it takes more than height to get the ball when it comes off the back board.

Parris easily led both teams in rebounds with 25 to his credit.

Coach Billy Mitchell added a lanky 6'3" junior, to his starting lineup of Ramsey (6'1" Sr.), May (6'2" Sr.), Ingram (5'9" Sr.), and McGill (5'10" Sr.) replacing Eddie Aslin who strained an old injury in practice earlier in the week.

Coach Mitchell will probably go with these five tonight when the Cats travel to Warren for another district game with the Lumberjacks.

If the Cats can win this one tonight they'll be right back in the big middle of 4AA action with a 3-3 record.

As many Hope fans as possible are urged to make the trip to Warren if weather permits and support the Cats. The Junior High warm up game begins at 6:30.

Jackson also stressed national unity through understanding.

One Fireman

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A burning trash truck made a run to Fire Station No. 35, but there was only one fireman on hand — a battalion chief — and he had only a garden hose.

The other firemen were testing their equipment at the Fire Department Academy. The garden hose was inadequate, so a pumper truck from Station No. 4 rumbled over to No. 35 and put out the fire.

Guidance Counselor Tells of Three-Day Tour of U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Star Feature Writer

"It is at once old and new, physical and spiritual, solid and soaring, of the earth and of outer space." Thus has an industrial magazine described the Air Force Academy Cadet Chapel whose 17 silvery spires soar 150 feet toward Colorado skies, blending with the backdrop of the Rocky Mountains. "And it is the thing by which I was impressed the most," said Hope Guidance Counselor Earl Downs after returning from a trip to the Academy with South Arkansas educators in what was called an Education Air Lift.

The three-day tour of the Academy, located 10 miles north of Colorado Springs, Colo., presented educational facilities at their finest in every phase, and the visiting principals, superintendents, and guidance counselors were notably impressed. The latest equipment, is closed circuit TV, and ideal teaching conditions, such as a classroom limit of 15 students, were presented, but in all the achievements of man and his future potentials one fact remained dominant. A religious program is important.

"As modern airmen brush wings with infinity there is an increasing awareness of an Ordered Universe, a Divine Designer. The limitless vistas of the Space Age challenge man's spiritual resources as well as his technology," states a brochure from the Academy. "The United States Air Force Academy meets this challenge with a comprehensive religious program for all young men of the Cadet Wing.

The beautiful all-faith chapel has sections for Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish services, and one room is reserved for any other denominational services. What is more, attendance at the Cadet Chapel is required of all cadets of the lower three classes and there are three Cadet Religious Councils, Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish, made up of members from each class. Members of the councils keep the chaplains apprised of the cadets' spiritual problems.

At the conclusion of exam week here in Hope, there are other questions which might also come to mind about the Academy. How often do Cadets have to take exams? It varies, depending upon the subject concerned and they range anywhere from a 10-minute quiz to 4-hour finals. Hm-m-m. Sounds like they have to study. How much? A cadet is expected to study 1 1/2 hours for each hour in the classroom.

"On this subject one cadet said, 'I wish I had learned better study habits; you've got to learn them in high school. I'm still developing study habits. If in high school, someone had impressed upon me the need to learn study habits and got me going, it would have helped.'"

The educators, all from secondary schools, were pleased to hear "the best prediction of a person's later success in life is his high school standing." We all know the importance of good foundation when building anything from a house to a life, but evidently in this Space Age still greater emphasis is placed on a Smooth Take-Off.

Harris to Take Oath on Feb. 3
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., said Thursday that he would take the oath of office as a federal judge Feb. 3 in federal District Court at el Dorado.

Harris visited Little Rock Thursday, looked over the courtroom and offices he will use and named his law clerk, court reporter and secretary.

Harris said he would return to Washington Sunday and be back in Arkansas the following weekend to stay.

He said he would handle all the court cases in the El Dorado and Texarkana division of District Court and some cases filed at Little Rock.

Harris' appointed aides are law clerk Lewis Smith, 33, a Magnolia lawyer; court reporter Mrs. Loukate Dodds, who served in that capacity in Pulaski Circuit Court from 1942 to 1963; and secretary Miss Vivian Taylor, for 19 years a secretary for a Texarkana law firm.

The following first offenders were placed on probation:

Two jury trials for liquor law violations brought convictions to Tom Stockton and Dock Wren Barham. Pleas of guilty to liquor law violations were entered by A. T. Johnson, A. J. Regans, Robert H. Nethery and Joe L. Rogers. Rev. A. C. Burton was tried by the court on a charge of driving while intoxicated and found guilty.

Judge Lyle Brown commended the state, county and city law enforcement officers in their handling of such a large number of cases. "The alertness and efficiency of officers is shown by the fact that every felon entered a plea of guilty. This means the cases were well prepared," Judge Brown said.

Castro Brings Security Step in Dominican

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Fidel Castro's threat to intervene in the Dominican Republic has caused the Dominican armed forces to intensify security precautions along the northwest coast.

The armed forces minister Commodore Francisco J. Rivera Caminero, declined Thursday night to go into details of the coastal watch. But he said naval patrols were concentrating on nearly 100 miles of coastline between Monte Cristi and Puerto Plata. Cuba's eastern tip is 160 miles northeast of Monte Cristi.

The minister also revealed that the Dominican navy recently acquired "several" new high-speed, heavily armed patrol craft from the United States. It was learned, however, that the small boats arrived some time before the new threat from Havana.

The commodore said the reason for the increased vigilance could be found in the words of Castro and the Dominican delegates at the Havana conference of revolutionaries from Latin America, Asia and Africa, which ended Sunday.

In his closing remarks to the conference, Castro declared the Dominican people "should not confront Yankee imperialism alone" and threatened open intervention by international communism in the Dominican Republic.

Earlier in the conference, one of the eight Dominican delegates, Cayetano Rodriguez del Prado of the Dominican Popular Movement, said his country in the future would become the "Viet Nam of the Caribbean."

Provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy barred the re-entry of the eight Havana delegates, who also included Eulides Gutierrez Felix, vice minister of the interior in the rebel government Col. Francisco Caamano Deneo set up in downtown Santo Domingo after the April revolution.
